

The domain sanquin.pl is available for sale

The domain has been maintained for 20 years by the former representative to Sanquin in Poland. The collaboration ceased without notice from the Dutch company, therefore we had reasons not to cease the subscription for the domain sanquin.pl which went on automatically. As we were recently informed about the cessation, we are open to the option of reselling the domain to Sanquin to the current representative in Poland or other party with legitimate interest.

Although no longer updated, the site is still generating genuine web traffic and has a 20-years' history in Google which makes it more credible and better positioned than any newly launched website. Between 2005 and 2015 the web address was also promoted during several immunology and allergy conferences on the company booth and in printed promotional materials, so it is not obscure to the laboratory researchers and doctors here in Poland. On the graph below you can see the present statistics from Google Search Console.
